

Collaboration with Fieldwork Education

28 November 2017

The Centre for Literacy in Primary Education (CLPE) is delighted to announce a collaboration with Fieldwork Education.

Charlotte Hacking, the Learning Programmes Leader at CLPE said, “Working together with Fieldwork Education on this project means we can help schools who have chosen to implement the International Primary Curriculum (IPC) and adopt our literacy approaches to ensure they are delivering a cohesive learning experience which enhances their literacy provision and supports cross curricular learning.”

Anna Vaughan, Head of IPC at Fieldwork Education said, “We are really excited to have collaborated with CLPE. We have mapped our International Primary Curriculum (IPC) units to CLPE books, most of which come from their Power of Reading programme. Some books are part of their wonderful Power of Pictures, Poetryline programmes or Core Book collection. It’s a fantastic opportunity to improve learning in schools.”

Fieldwork Education and CLPE are committed to improving learning in classrooms by placing quality children's literature right at the heart of it. We are planning on continuing the collaboration into 2018 with a joint webinar and attendance at each other’s events. If you’re not currently using either the Power of Reading or IPC programme, you may be interested in how both the IPC curriculum and the Power of Reading can work together.

For more information about the Power of Reading visit: www.clpe.org.uk/powerofreading

To request further information about the IPC visit:

<http://fieldworkeducation.com/curriculums/primary-years/about-the-ipc>